BARS UP AGAINST SPITBALL CRACKERS

Eight of League's Moist-Ballers Will Have to Seek Greener Pastures—Admission Prices Raised—Nine Veterans and Six Youngsters on Teams.

BY BOB FIGUE.

NO MORE SPITBALL PITCHERS will perform in the Southern league. At the closing session of the Dixie major Tuesday afternoon it was decided to abolish all freak deliveries, such as the spitter, the emery ball and the shine ball. The penalty for a pitcher using the spitter will be to call a balk on him if any runners are on the paths. If no runners are aboard, it will be called a ball.

At the present there are eight spitball pitchers in the Southern. Cy Slapnicka, of the Birmingham Barons, is one of the leading moist-ballers of Dixie, with Leo Stone, of Little Rock, another. The Memphis Chickasaws have two in Tiny Goodbrod and Roy Fontaine. The New Orleans Pelicans have Red Torkelson, while the Chattanooga Lookouts have Paddy Lohman. Hub Perdue, of New Orleans, is also addicted to the wet delivery.

TO BE SOLD OR TRADED.

The spitball pitchers of the Southern will either be sold or traded, and it is more than probable that the league will get practically all of them. Roy Fontaine, of the Memphis Chickasaws, is being sought by the Texas league, and is expected to land two or three good pitchers out of the present lot. There were several alleged spitball pitchers in the Southern league last season, but as a matter of fact, there was not a single hurler among the number who knew the intricate workings of the spitball. Several pitchers experimented with it, but as far as being real spitball pitchers, they weren't there.

The new plan that the Southern league has adopted calls for every pitcher to land the ball without resort to anything. The umpires will prevent a pitcher with a small set of rosin at the start of each game. The pitcher will not be permitted to use his own rosin, but will have to get it from the umpire.

ROOKIE RULE DECIDED.

The much discussed rookie rule came up for disposition on the final day of the Southern league meeting, and after considerable argument pro and con—especially on the part of the Texas league—it was decided that it would be better to place the number of class A players at nine and the number of recruits at six. There was a small set of rosin at the start of each game. The pitcher will not be permitted to use his own rosin, but will have to get it from the umpire.

It was a peculiar coincidence that one of two of the smaller clubs in the league desired that the rule be removed and all clubs permitted to carry 15 class A players or as many as they desired. It was pointed out that these clubs would be in financial trouble before the season was over in case such a rule was adopted.

RAISE ADMISSION PRICES.

The league managers decided to go up on the price of baseball in the Southern league despite the assurance of the Dixie major that the league would not increase. It was pointed out by those supporting the measure for a raise in admission prices that the baseball managers had been hard hit by the high cost of living, which has soared steadily, and that with increased expenses it was necessary to increase the revenue.

So it was decided to raise the price to the bleachers to 40 cents, which will include war tax. The price to the grandstand will be 65 cents, including war tax. This is an increase of 10 cents on each admission. The salary limit has been raised to $4,000 and it is taken money to pay the players. It was deemed best to go up on the admission prices.

It was generally conceded among the club owners that a better time would be necessary to fill the parks at the increased prices. And with almost all players on hand and only six below that class, the managers are counting on producing a big batch of articles on the history of the association.

HANDS OFF HASTY CASE.

As was predicted in these columns Monday, the league took to heart the Hasty case other than to adopt a resolution to the effect that the Southern league would not have its hands off the proposition until the case had been resolved.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The general committee of the American Trap Shooting association yesterday decided to adopt the same plan for the sport in the United States, dividing the country into five sections—eastern, southern, middle, north and west.

The committee was formed last month when the amateur associations were admitted to the national body, in addition to handicap tournaments in each zone, state championships and state handicaps will be held.

Colins played his usual good game for the Wades Sunday. His passing was faultless.

Tommy Long, in the backfield pivot position of the Wades, showed no advantage Sunday. His goal shot won the game for the Wades in this fracas.

Monday's goalkeeping seems to be improving. While the Wades goal was in no immediate danger throughout the last game Sunday, good work in the pinches was noticeable.

Scruggs played a brilliant defensive game for the Smart Millinery team Sunday. His booting proved especially helpful when their goal was threatened.

Hugh is fast proving one of the keenest goal keepers in the League. His work Sunday was of the tip-top variety.

If Werne continued to be one of the star performers for the Royal Roofing team, he would be a valuable asset to the Smart team.

Walsh continues his good work for the Y. M. C. team. His work in the midline for the Institute boys last Sunday was among the best of his performances.

Young Duane played the game of his life Sunday for the Y. M. C. team. He was on every play and was remarkably accurate in his blocking and kicking.

Hanna, who played right back for the Y. M. C. in Sunday's game, played the best game of his career. His work is constantly improving and he now rates as one of the strongest back field kickers in Memphis.

What good is a soccer player unless he shows up?

That is the one question that came in for considerable discussion after the defeat of two teams last Sunday.

On one club the roster had been cut to the core, with the idea of playing all players who would show up regularly, and one player who had been absent for two weeks showed up as the game was well along.

Another club suffered a similar mishap when two fast forwards failed to show up, and as a result the team was weakened.

Irwin M. Howe, of Chicago, was again named official league statistician.

The club owners gathered for their home Tuesday night, all apparently satisfied with the work accomplished at the meeting.

REYNOLDS LATE.

Frank Reynolds, vice-president of the Atlanta Crackers, got tied up behind a wreck and didn't arrive at the Southern league meeting until late Tuesday afternoon.

He got here in time, however, to have a word in the rookie rule proposition, also the raising of the admission prices to Southern league parks.

As soon as Reynolds arrived, Charley Frank left for his home. The Dutchman wasn't feeling well, and decided to return to Bay St. Louis, Miss., where he is wintering.

THE SQUASH UNSIGNED.

Hub Perdue came and went without getting signed to a contract. Hub figured he is a free agent, but learned while here that President Heinemann, of the New Orleans Pelicans, is going to call waivers on him.

Little Rock, says he will claim Hub when waivers are made, but the Spaniard says he can't get the money he wants out of the Little Rock club or he'd sign.

"If I don't get what I want I'll just have to go back to Gallatin and my farm and keep raising corn," says Hub.

If Hub can get out of the Southern league he'll go to Texas, where several clubs are angling for him.

Although there was a big fire going on within the block of the Southern league meeting Tuesday night, the managers kept magnifying, and finished up the business with the main street.

They were all anxious to finish up and go home, and decided to pass up witnessing the blaze.
